Ready... Get Set... Play !

Thanks to MODern Housing Solutions, (MHS), the organisation which is responsible for maintaining Service Families' Accommodation on behalf of the MOD/DIO, Tidworth's new super-size play park has been completed in time to enable children to enjoy it during the Summer holidays.

The play park is located on the grassy area beside the Bourne, between the Wylve Road quarters and Holy Trinity Church. It caters for children of all ages, from toddlers to teenagers, with a fenced area for smaller children. It is already popular with families and children from all over the area who have been having fun in the park in the Summer sunshine.

The play park was funded by the MOD Defence Infrastructure Organisation, (DIO), and was designed, installed and will be maintained by

MHS. The official opening ceremony is being planned and will take place in mid-September.

#modontheplain

The latest news and information about MOD activities on Salisbury Plain is now just a click away, following the launch of a new Twitter hashtag. It will be used to communicate such information as :

- # Firing times, including long firing weekends
- # Low flying aircraft and noise
- # The control of dogs and dog fouling
- # Access issues for groups using the Plain
- # Public safety
- # News about unit movements & any new building work
- # Nature conservation and Archaeology

The hashtag has been launched by the Defence Infrastructure Organisation (DIO) which Twitter users can follow under the name @MOD_DIO, enabling them to track topics and conversations relating to Salisbury Plain.

"Salisbury Plain is the most important UK military training area for the MOD because of its size", said Lt Col Mark Hiskett, the Principal Training Safety Officer for the South West. "We are committed to keeping those who live near, use or have an interest in the area, as well informed as possible of our sustainable training activities for their own safety and convenience."

DIO is responsible for managing and maintaining land and property on behalf of the MOD. Their work includes looking after single living and service family accommodation, training areas and historic military sites.

Tidworth 10k and 3k Fun Run Sunday 3 November Tedworth Park and across the Plain

This popular annual event in aid of the Salisbury District Hospital Stars Appeal and organised with the assistance of 1st Mechanized Brigade Headquarters and Signal Squadron (215), takes place on Sunday 3rd November.

The event was originally the brainchild of 215 Signal Squadron soldiers Paul Munslow and Mark Morgan who wanted to do something to help the local hospital that had provided care for so many of their fellow Servicemen and their families. The runs first started in 2005 and have raised over £200,000 towards important charitable projects at the Hospital. This year, all runners' sponsorship will go towards the CT Scanner campaign, which aims to raise £650,000 to buy a second CT scanner which will benefit around 12,000 local people each year. Having a second scanner will cut waiting times, make sure scans are always available, mean less travelling to other hospitals for scans, and the advanced technology and techniques will reduce the need for minor exploratory surgery.

"The Tidworth 10k is an event that the Army is proud to be involved with", said WO2 SSM McMahon of 215 Signal Squadron. "There are many military families based in and around Tidworth who receive care at Salisbury District Hospital and to support the Stars Appeal CT Scanner campaign is something that we feel is very important".

The event attracts runners of all ages and abilities and although there are always some fast times, the focus is on fun and fundraising. Runners can choose between a 3k or 10k route which both start and finish in Tedworth Park. The 10k goes out onto the Plain, whereas the 3k follows a much less challenging route around the polo field and is suitable for all to run, walk or toddle. Pushchairs are welcome too so the whole family can get involved.

Running places are limited so register as soon as possible to ensure your place ! Register online at : www.starsappeal.org

"Front Line to Start Line"

Almost exactly a year after London 2012, the British Paralympic Association, together with the charity, 'Help for Heroes', held the first major event in their 'Front Line to Start Line' programme. This programme is designed not only to give wounded Service personnel and veterans as many opportunities as possible to try out different sports, but also to find individuals who may have the potential to represent Paralympics GB in Rio 2016 or beyond.

On hand at the Tidworth Oval to advise and encourage were Penny Briscoe, Director of Sport for the British Paralympic

Association, Martin Colclough, Head of Physical Recovery at Tedworth House and L/ Cpl Derek Derenlaci, double amputee and Paralympic athlete, recently returned from Lyon where he won a silver medal at the Euro Paralympic Trials.

The Cherry Picker's Shag

In an enthusiastic effort to stay in touch with regimental traditions, the King's Royal Hussars will commonly smoke a pipe when deployed on operations or exercise.

To this end, the Regiment now has its own mix of tobacco. Instigated and procured by Padre Gary Scott, the mix is an English Cavendish with a cherry rich aroma. A small amount of Latakia has been added for depth as this was The Duke of Wellington's tobacco of choice. In a curious twist of history this was also a variety of tobacco grown on the estate in New Jersey owned by Joseph Bonaparte after he fled to the USA following defeat at the battle of Vittoria. The Regiment's ancestors were heavily involved in this battle which took place exactly 200 years ago!

Theatre in Tidworth

The new Garrison Theatre building is almost complete and its official opening will take place on 1st November, at a ceremony to be performed by the Lord Lieutenant for Wiltshire.

Following in distinguished footsteps ...

A theatre provides life at the heart of a community and the new building will be taking the place of the old Garrison Theatre which has been doing exactly that for more than a hundred years ...

In the Beginning

The old Garrison Theatre at the top of Lowa Road opened in 1909. Bert Pickernell (Manager 1909 - 47) was persuaded to leave the Empire Theatre in Swindon to come to the Theatre in Tidworth, which opened to a packed house with a boxing tournament - the winner of the final bout received the princely sum of £10 and the loser £5! Over the next 104 years, the life of the old Theatre was to become closely linked with the Pickernell family, who still manage it today.

In the early days, the theatre showed Silent Movies, with Bert's young son, Ken, responsible for providing some of the sound effects, for example, rattling the chains behind the scenes for the chariot race in the original film of Ben Hur!

The Tidworth Theatre was at the forefront of entertainment and was the place to see all the latest shows: live plays from the Strand Repertory Co; ballet from the Sadlers Wells Ballet Company and Big Band Concerts from the Southern Command Symphony Orchestra conducted by conductors such as Sir Malcolm Sargent and Sir Adrian Boult.

In June 1926 Dame Nellie Melba, the world famous Australian opera singer, (of Peach Melba and Melba Toast fame), came to Tidworth to give her final performance in this country before retiring - three days after her last London appearance at Covent Garden in the presence of the King and Queen.

BBC radio programmes such as "Any Questions?", "The Frankie Howerd Show" and "Music while you work" were also recorded here.

1939 - 1945

Wartime Commanders such as Montgomery, Alexander and Eisenhower used the theatre to address the vast numbers of troops passing through the Salisbury Plain Garrisons, during the War and in the run-up to D-Day.

The Theatre was used by ENSA to entertain the troops, with big stars of the day such as James Cagney (singing "Yankee Doodle Dandy"), Bob Hope, Carole Landis, Alistair Sim, Will Hay and Robertson Hare all performing here.

One of the Theatre's more unusual uses was as a Briefing Centre for the "GI Brides": hundreds of British girls came here for lectures about American life before emigrating to the USA with their new American GI husbands.

Post War

Army boxing competitions continued to be held here and Henry Cooper, Joe Erskine and Dick Richardson all fought here during their National Service days.

Dancing to the "Big Time Bands" and ballroom dancing competitions for teams from all over the South West of England were held at the Theatre during the '50s and "big names" such as Frankie Vaughan, Frankie Howerd, Norman Wisdom, Eric Sykes, Roy Castle and Max Bygraves all performed at the Garrison Theatre. Ken Pickernell, (Manager 1947 - 87), was a member of the Variety Club of Great Britain and was awarded the BEM in 1955 for his services to Tidworth Garrison.

Another unusual use was found for the Theatre in the 1950s when Hungarian refugees were lodged there for a while after fleeing the uprising in their own country.

The BIGGEST performer, however, must have been the elephant which appeared on stage when the Chessington Circus put on a show at the Theatre!

Today

Tony Pickernell, Bert's grandson, became Manager of the Theatre in 1987, handing over to Julie Pickernell in 2010, who continues as Manager to this day.

The Old Theatre still hosts the ever-popular Regimental band concerts, children's concerts and Army boxing competitions. It has also been the venue for another recording of the BBC radio programme, 'Any Questions?'; lectures by personalities such as the inspirational 'War Walks' historian Richard Holmes and Bravo Two Zero author, Andy McNab; and an inter-unit fundraising talent competition called "Garrison's Got Talent", inspired by a TV programme with a similar name! In recent years the Old Theatre has been in great demand for deployment briefings, being one of the only places in the South West of England that can hold such a large number of people.

The New Theatre

The New Garrison Theatre has a proud tradition to uphold and for this reason its auditorium will be called, "The Pickernell Auditorium", in honour of the family whose history has been so closely intertwined with the Old Garrison Theatre for 104 years.

There are two parts to the new building: the largest part is the Theatre, which comprises a main entrance, reception and lobby areas on the ground and first floors, a 700-seater auditorium and 5 conference/meeting rooms, four of which can be merged to form one large meeting room. The new theatre will be provided with state-of-the-art IT equipment with surround sound as well as an enormous 36' x 19' screen.

The second part of the building, with its own separate entrance and reception on the west side of the building, is an office complex on the ground floor which will be used primarily by the Army Welfare Service.

The new theatre will be managed on behalf of the MOD by Aspire Defence Ltd and, being located in St Andrew's Road, 'outside the wire', it will be available for use by both the military and civilian communities. More details to follow soon!

The Cycle 2000 Team stops at Tedworth House

British soldiers who have suffered life-changing injuries will receive vital support from funds raised by a 2,000km charity cycle ride which took place last month.

The Cycle 2000 riders visited all 20 Barclays Premier League Grounds in the country, from Newcastle to Southampton, as well as military sites including the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Birmingham, the Defence Medical Rehabilitation Centre Headley Court and three Recovery Centres including Tedworth House. The funds raised will be used to support specific training, education and resettlement initiatives run by Help for Heroes and ABF The Soldiers' Charity.

The ride was the idea of Paul Findlay, a former Corporal in the Royal Signals who was one of the first Wounded in Service soldiers to benefit from the Armed Forces Transition, Employment and Resettlement (AFTER) programme. AFTER is a £1m partnership between Barclays and the Ministry of Defence to support 1,000 wounded in service personnel and help them into employment with leading businesses. Paul now works for Barclays :

"I'm leading this challenge to raise funds for Help for Heroes and ABF The Soldiers' Charity because I've seen the difference programmes like this can make for our wounded troops", he said. "Cycle 2000 is a fantastic way to demonstrate to employers across the country that ex-military personnel have a huge amount of skills and qualities to offer. It will hopefully be an inspiration to some of the other guys, too!"

A Helping Hand for Bees

Lt Col David Barron, Chairman of the Bulford Conservation Group, has been presented with a top bar bee hive by John Fogarty, Jon Jones and Nick Kirwan of Aspire Defence Services Limited (ADSL).

This type of hive is designed to create a natural habitat to support bees rather than maximise honey production. ADSL plans to put a further 9 hives in strategic locations across Salisbury Plain and Aldershot as part of a range of activities to support and improve biodiversity.

&Army &You

The Army Families Federation (AFF) will launch Army&You this Autumn. A brand new publication for all Army families and everyone with a soldier in their life.

Award-winning publishers TylerBale Communications have been appointed to design an entirely new, free, quarterly magazine, to replace the AFF Journal, which will be delivered direct to a readership of more than 250,000 every quarter. Containing news, features, letters and reader giveaways in a new, commercial-quality design, Army&You will provide the perfect vehicle for AFF to spread news of its support of families of serving soldiers, TA and Reserves and the wider Army family.

Tidworth Community Day Balloon Race Results

The results are now in from the Balloon Race started at the Tidworth Community Area Day.

Balloons released on the polo pitches in Tidworth on 15th June travelled as far as Surrey, Kent, Leicestershire - and several even reached as far as Holland !

Sadly, two of the Dutch balloons' tickets were returned after the closing date, but among the others, one was posted back from Breda (341 miles) and the another from Rijswijk (383 miles). The Rijswijk ticket is therefore the winner !

The winning balloon was purchased by someone living in Tidworth and they will soon be receiving their prize from the organisers of the race, the Tidworth Youth Development Centre.

TFH leaves Lashkar Gah

The headquarters of British forces deployed in Afghanistan moved from

Lashkar Gah to Camp Bastion on 9th August, in an early morning helicopter operation hailed as probably the most complex headquarters move on operations ever undertaken by the British Army.

UK operations across Helmand Province have been coordinated from the Task Force Helmand headquarters in Lashkar Gah for over seven years, since May 2006. The move to Camp Bastion is part of the process of drawdown of UK forces and reflects the fact that security operations across the province are now planned and conducted by Afghan forces, following the formal 'lift off' by TFH Brigade Advisory Group, (made up of soldiers from 4 RIFLES), from advising at battalion to brigade level.

"With our advising role now focused at the brigade level, this was the right time to move the Task Force Headquarters to be next to that of our counterparts in 3/215 Brigade at Camp Shorabak", said Brigadier Rupert Jones, Commander Task Force Helmand.

"The technical challenges of the move were enormous", said Major Liz Byfield, OC 215 Signal Squadron. "It wasn't just the sheer amount of IT we had to move, but the number of different systems which interact with each other, with different levels of security classification, which made the move a huge undertaking."
