Afghanistan Medals for 1 RHA

Soldiers from 1st Regiment Royal Horse Artillery received their Op HERRICK Medals on 24th July, in recognition of the part they played in Afghanistan between September 2009 and April 2010.

The medals parade was preceded by a display from the Royal Artillery Parachute Display Team, "The Black Knights", and a musical drive from the Kings Troop.

1st Regiment Royal Horse Artillery deployed throughout all areas of Helmand, tasked to provide Joint Fires support to 11 Light Brigade. The core responsibility of the Regiment was to protect soldiers on the ground with Artillery and Air support. This evolved significantly throughout the tour :

The Regiment became focussed on "courageous restraint", only firing when absolute necessary; this had a positive effect on the people of Helmand who ventured out more and engaged with the soldiers on a daily basis.

During the course of Op HERRICK 11 the Regiment fired nearly 3500 rounds from the Light Gun, over 100 of which were from the direct fire "Dragon Gun". The Fire Support Teams (FSTs) of the Regiment co-ordinated fast jets, attack helicopters and Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV) drones to find, track and sometimes strike the insurgent. The Regiment helped to establish and run the brand new Helmand Police Training Centre for new police recruits, helping to bring a coherent, less corrupt police service to Helmand for the first time. The Regiment co-ordinated the battle-space for the busiest military airspace in the world and defended the force against rocket and mortar attack.

Soldiers from the Regiment also undertook essential tasks such as transporting troops, protecting large convoys and force protection tasks throughout Helmand. All these soldiers played a key role in the recent Operation Moshtarak, during which they were responsible for improving the security and quality of life of the Afghan people and protecting the coalition forces.

The Parade and Families' Day which followed marked the end of the operational tour, celebrating the safe homecoming of the Regiment and allowing them to publicly thank their families and friends who supported them throughout the deployment.

4 RIFLES unveil their Memorial

A Memorial to those who have died while serving with 4 RIFLES was unveiled last month, outside the new Regimental Headquarters building in Ward Barracks in Bulford.

Financed by The Worshipful Company of Carpenters, the Memorial has been made of Portland stone and slate by the Building Crafts College in London and erected on a plinth made by Aspire Defence Capital Works. The Unit Project Officer was QM(Tech) Capt Rob Cutler.

"We felt that it was important, now that Bulford is our home, that we should commission a proper memorial to everyone who dies in 4 RIFLES, in whatever circumstances", said Commanding Officer, Lt Col Rupert Jones, after the ceremony. "4 RIFLES was formed just 3 1/2 years ago and sadly, it's been losing people throughout that time, in Iraq, Afghanistan and back here in the UK. The families of all 15 men named on the Memorial are represented here today - one Mother has travelled all the way from Fiji to be here. It is a very emotional day for them."

Lt Col Jones has commanded 4 RIFLES for 2 1/2 years, and left the Unit a few days after the ceremony to go and work in the MOD in London.

"It has been a wonderful experience to command Rifleman", he said.

Music to their Ears

Children from local primary schools were recently invited to a morning of music at the Tidworth Garrison

Theatre. The Band of the Prince of Wales's Division, based in nearby Lucknow Barracks, entertained the children, explaining the role of musicians in the Army and playing a wide range of music - which often had the children swaying in their seats and singing along.

The event was organised by Tony Pickernell, the Tidworth Community Area Partnership Coordinator, who is keen to develop links between local schools.

12th Mech Brigade compete in their Skill at Arms Meet

Soldiers and Officers of 12th Mechanized Brigade took part in their Skill at Arms Meet at Westdown Camp and Bulford Ranges during the week of 14 - 18 Jun 2010. The aims of the competition were to improve marksmanship across the Brigade, identify those genuinely talented shots to represent the Brigade in the Army SAAM held at Bisley prior to eventual deployment on operations. Teams from all of the Brigade's units and HQs entered the event, consisting of a four way round robin of March and Shoot, the Association Cup, the Army Hundred Cup and Pistol Match. On the final day they competed in a knock out Falling Plates competition.

After zeroing and practise on the first day, the competition began in earnest. Both the Association Cup and the Army Hundred Cup replicated rural contacts with the competitors firing at targets over a number of distances in differing scenarios while the March and Shoot involved an arduous two mile squadded speed march carrying 20kg, before firing at the target. In the Pistol Match competitors fired at targets at distances of between 15 and 25m. Finally the Falling Plate competition required the units to race side by side over obstacles onto a firing point with the winners proceeding on to the next round.

As can be imagined, competition between the units was extremely fierce however 1st Battalion Welsh Guards emerged victorious overall with their first team enjoying victories in the Falling Plates and March and Shoot and their second team winning the Pistol Match and Army Hundred Cup. 3rd Battalion The Rifles took the honours in the Association Cup while 2Lt Clarke, 1st Battalion The Royal Welsh, took the award for the Best Individual. Tpr Couling, Lt Dragoons, was awarded Best Young Shot.

In addition to the competition, the event raised £627 from the profits of food sales to be split between the SAAFA and ABF The Soldiers' Charity.

SSAFA Information Point

4 RIFLES have kindly produced a new information point for SSAFA FH Salisbury Plain. It has been placed in the busy foyer of The Hub in Kiwi Barracks, where those using the facility will be able to find out what SSAFA FH can do to help all those serving here in the Salisbury Plain area. SSAFA FH is planning to put a further information point in a similar position in Tidworth Camp.

Crime Prevention Advice

- If you are working or relaxing in the back garden, make sure that any windows and doors which you cannot see are securely closed and locked.
- DO be a nosey neighbour : tell the Police if you see anyone acting suspiciously in your neighbourhood.
- DO NOT approach any suspicious persons. Contact the Police with as much detail as possible, eg : personal descriptions, what clothes they are wearing and registration numbers of unusual vehicles.

BFBS gets another Award !

BFBS Radio and BBC Radio 1 have been presented with a special President's Award at the inaugural RBL "Friends of the Forces Awards" held at the National Liberal Club in London, attended by HRH Prince Harry and hosted by TV presenter, Dan Snow. The Chief of the Defence Staff, Air Chief Marshal Sir Jock Stirrup, presented the special award to Fearné Cotton from BBC Radio 1 and Richard Hatch from BFBS Radio in recognition of the two broadcasters' inspirational link-up at the end of May.

On Bank Holiday Monday, 31st May, BBC Radio 1 and Forces Broadcaster BFBS Radio teamed up for a very special day, linking live with the BFBS Radio studio on the ground in Afghanistan, across the UK and around the Forces world in more than 20 countries. BFBS presenters Richard Hatch and Jessie Aru at the studio in Camp Bastion linked live with Dev, Fearné Cotton, Greg James and finally Scott Mills from 9am to 7pm, with messages, banter and a slice of Forces life in Afghanistan. And, for 2 hours in the middle of the day, the entire Forces world in more than 20 countries, from the Falklands to Afghanistan, joined for a simulcast, including the UK Forces audience listening to BFBS Radio on DAB, and the wider UK audience on BBC Radio 1. BBC Radio 1 received over 25,000 texts and emails during the 10-hour link-up !

Lt General Sir John Kiszely KCB MC, National President of The Royal British Legion, said: "This award is richly deserved. In putting the British public in direct contact with its Armed Forces on operations in Afghanistan, BFBS and BBC Radio 1 have enhanced the appreciation of our Armed Forces and provided them valuable support, which is what the Friends of the Forces Awards are all about."

Nicky Ness, Controller BFBS Radio, said: "We were really happy to work with BBC Radio 1 on this initiative, connecting the general public with the fantastic Forces audience in Afghanistan and their families in the UK, showcasing the kind of connectivity we achieve on BFBS Radio every day, in the UK and worldwide. Having a station in Afghanistan, manned by Forces' broadcasters who live amongst the audience, know their world and share many of their experiences, adds a huge amount of value to the broadcasting we're able to do and could share with BBC Radio 1. It's impossible to put a price on the morale boost the daily link-up on BFBS Radio on DAB in the UK gives within the Forces' world and we are really happy that BBC Radio 1 helped us communicate that content with the wider UK population, who were so supportive on the day."

Andy Parfitt, Controller, BBC Radio 1, said: "We're delighted that our partnership with BFBS has been recognised in this way. Radio 1 has a strong connection with British Forces as many of them are loyal listeners and this initiative allowed us to make a special connection with the young men and women in Camp Bastion and beyond, allowing them to share some of their extraordinary experiences with other young listeners in the UK - it made for a great day's broadcasting."

Gurkha Shop adds Spice to the Tidworth Shopping Experience

Four Gurkha ex-Servicemen who joined the Army together, have joined forces again after leaving the Army earlier this year to open a Gurkha shop in Tidworth's Station Road.

The shop will be of interest to all "Foodies" in the community, especially all Foreign and Commonwealth Servicemen and their dependants, selling a wide variety of food products from Nepal, Asia, Fiji, the Caribbean and the African states. Customers will also be able to order items that are not on the shelves.

Remembering Fromelles

A soldier killed in the Battle of Fromelles in 1916, the last of the 250 recently discovered in mass graves near the battlefield in Northern France, has been laid to rest in a new Commonwealth War Graves Commission Cemetery dedicated by HRH The Prince of Wales. The ceremony, which took place on the 94th anniversary of the battle, marked the end of a two-year project to give the 250 soldiers a fitting final place of rest.

The coffin was brought from Pheasant Wood, the location of the original graves, on a WWI Mark X General Service Wagon pulled by horses from the Kings Troop Royal Horse Artillery. The procession made its way through the village of Fromelles and was joined by HRH The Prince of Wales and Her Excellency the Governor General of Australia, Quentin Bryce, along with Chief of the General Staff General Sir David Richards and Lt General Ken Gillespie, Australian Chief of Army. Also taking part in the ceremony were soldiers from 4 RIFLES and 1 RRF from this Garrison, together with soldiers from the Australian Army.

Captain Dean Murch, who commanded the 4 RIFLES contingent, said: "It was an absolute honour and privilege to have taken part in this burial and to show our gratitude to the soldiers that sacrificed everything for our freedom so many years ago".

Of the 250 men recovered from Pheasant Wood, 205 have been identified as Australians (96 by name), three are British and 42 are 'Known unto God'. The identity of the soldier buried on July 19th remains "Known unto God".
